NEW YORK AFRICAN FILM FESTIVAL TOWN HALL EVENT - DIGITAL DIAPORSA FAMILY REUNION ROADSHOW
SUNDAY, MAY 1

Elonor Bunin Munroe Film Center Amphitheater @ 2:00pm

The 23rd New York African Film Festival opens with a special live, interactive town hall event featuring the Digital Diaspora Family Reunion Roadshow (DDFR). Developed by photographer-filmmaker Thomas Allen Harris, Digital Diaspora Family Reunion Roadshow is a powerful program that helps bridge perceived differences between people and transforms strangers into family. People of all backgrounds are invited to bring family photos (on cameras or traditional print photos) to the event for a chance to share their family stories, and in the process discover the communal linkages that underlie our common humanity as their photos are projected on a large screen for the audience. Those who want to come and simply watch the event as audience members are welcome too. A panel discussion with creatives from the African Diaspora will follow the interactive family reunion roadshow. This event is free, but registration is required. Seating is limited. For all free events, AFF will release registered seats 15 minutes before start time, at which point seating will be on a first-come, first-seated basis until venue reaches capacity. We recommend that you arrive early.

DIGITAL EXHIBIT: DIGITAL DIAPORSA FAMILY REUNION ROADSHOW
WEDNESDAY, MAY 4 - TUESDAY, MAY 10

Elonor Bunin Munroe Film Center Amphitheater

A digital art exhibit featuring portraits and images from the Digital Diaspora Family Reunion Roadshow serves as a companion piece to the 23rd New York African Film Festival. Highlighting the ways in which photography has long been used to capture treasured moments, DDFR is also helping to show a new generation the power of the still photograph to retain powerful records of family trees and provide cultural touchstones across borders.

THE 23rd NEW YORK AFRICAN FILM FESTIVAL
MODERN DAYS, ANCIENT NIGHTS: 50 YEARS OF AFRICAN FILMMAKING

When Senegalese pioneer Ousmane Sembene premiered his masterpiece Black Girl at Cannes in 1966, it was the first time a Sub-Saharan feature film was accepted in the European cinema mecca. The international film world turned its head to Africa, and Sembene, "the father of African cinema" brought the highly regarded Prix Jean Vigo home to Dakar. The first generation of pan-African artists and activists used cinema as a platform to comment on and fight for their people’s rights. The world these men and women envisioned was composed of free, independent, equal, and solitary nations and individuals, and the universal language of cinema was a perfect means to inform, educate, and entertain both local and international audiences. Fifty years later, historical and contemporary events make their dreams seem further away. Nevertheless, their personal and artistic commitment is a living model for the youth, who honor their legacy in the field of art and creation in our interconnected digital era.

Armed with their imagination, these fearless men and women continue the struggle of their ancestors, transforming film language in innovative and unexpected ways to forge new identities, find their way back home, and create new spaces to incite dialogue against injustice. Wars, migration and forced displacement are salient factors reshaping the face of the earth, concealing dramatic individual and collective stories. New languages, styles, genres, and narratives, stitched together with the richness of international references, pop culture, and vernacular traditions, bring to light an African-inflected world in constant change and mutation.

In its 23rd annual edition, the New York African Film Festival is pleased to show film-lovers the most fascinating selection of narrative features, documentaries, and shorts from the African continent and the Diaspora. More than 50 works from over 25 countries display the exhilarating labor of a new generation of filmmakers working from the four corners of the world, enriching the growing patrimony of African cinema.

AFRICAN FILM FESTIVAL MISSION

African Film Festival, Inc. (AFF) is dedicated to advancing an enhanced understanding of African culture through the moving image. It offers diverse platforms for the wide distribution of African media through its flagship annual film festival and complementary year-round programming. In 1990, AFF’s founders established goals that continue to enrich the organization mission and organizational development: to use African cinema to promote and increase knowledge and understanding of African arts, literature and culture; to develop a non-African audience for African films; to expand the opportunities for the distribution of African films in the United States and abroad.
